California Legislature To Reconvene Monday Noon

SOLONS FACE 3400 BILLS UPON RETURN

Financial, Economic and Social Problems Will Be Tackled During Session

MAY LAST UNTIL JUNE

Biggest Problem is Devising Ways and Means to Raise Hundred Million

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 2.—(UP)—Financial, economic and social problems that have harassed California government will be tackled by the legislature when it convenes Monday to resume its 51st session.

Facing necessary chores which must be handled and scores of other subjects on which there have been demands for action, the legislators prepared to roll up their sleeves and dive into the mass of 3400 bills from which they may not emerge until June.

Before ending the session they must approve a budget to operate the state government for the 1935-37 biennium and devise ways and means for raising $100,000,000 in new revenue to finance the costs. In addition, they must—unless they decided to continue struggling along on a temporary program—figure out a plan to alleviate unemployment and do something about increasing demands for old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

Many Problems

Those are the outstanding problems which are considered "musts." The remainder of the program, as outlined by bills introduced during the January session, includes: Consideration of anti-alien laws; study of public and private ownership of utility services; creation of new state boards, bureaus and commissions in the face of top-heavy governmental expenditures; purification of election laws and extension of the non-partisan system; establishing obstacles in the paths of radical movements; reorganization of the prison system and strengthening of law enforcement machinery; relieving hard-pressed taxpayers; clarifying the Central Valley water plan; inclusion of all roads in the state highway system; changes in marriage and divorce laws.

In seeking to solve the many problems, legislators will not be lacking in ideas.

Among the more than 3400 bills before them are a wide variety of suggestions bearing particularly on the subjects of finance, taxation and unemployment.

Hundred Million

Enough taxation measures have been introduced to raise more than $200,000,000 in new revenue. Since only $100,000,000 is needed, it would appear that the legislature would take its choice and dispose of the financial subject speedily.

Every taxation proposal, however, was considered controversial and the potential cause of a prolonged argument.

Recommendations for aiding the unemployed ranked first among public buildings to trying the production for use plan advocated by Upton Sinclair and his Epic

QUOR CONDITIONS IN STATE ATTACKED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 2.—(UP)—Liquor control should be placed in the hands of the legislature, rather than being made an inflexible part of the constitution, George M. Stout, state liquor control administrator, told the Sacramento county chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

"Conditions must improve substantially within the next two years," he said, "or prohibition will return."

"Liquor has no place in the constitution as at present. Control and administration are problems to be solved by the legislature. Temperance, rather than revenue, should be the legislature's slogan during consideration of provisions for a new liquor control act."

Stout said he had detected no marked improvement in conditions since enactment of a new constitutional amendment last November which permitted liquor to be served in restaurants, hotels and clubs.

HOLMES HOLDS OWN IN BATTLE AGAINST DEATH

Comfortable Night Spent by Former Justice of Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—As tenaciously as he ever clung to a great liberal principle, Oliver Wendell Holmes, ill with pneumonia, clung to life today.

Another 12 hours in his fight against the dangerous disease, especially treacherous due to his 93 years, has passed with the patient continuing to hold his own. Dr. Thomas A. Clayton reported today.

Holmes spent another comfortable night in the quiet 12-room brick house where he has lived for more than 30 years, his physician said.

The justice was given a light breakfast and cracked a few light jests with his nurses, though fully aware of the gravity of his condition.

Holmes is not allowed to read the deluge of telegrams that have descended on the quite householder since his illness was publicly reported. Newspapers also are banned.

Physicians have been encouraged by the resistance Holmes has displayed thus far to the illness, but warned that he still is in serious danger.

Sen. Robert LaFollette, P., Wis., was the first visitor at the Holmes house today. He was admitted to the sick room and said he was impressed by the stamina shown by the elderly justice. He said there appeared to be no change in Holmes' condition.

Margaret Cottingham, a diminutive old woman who for years served as housekeeper for Holmes, emerged from the house dabbled at her eyes with a handkerchief.

"I'm sure he is going to pull through," she said quietly. "He is such a marvelous man."

She recalled how Holmes came to her boarding house when he arrived in Washington in 1902 to assume his position on the supreme court bench.

A short time after his arrival, she and Edward Holmes, the justice's nephew, selected the red brick house at 1729 I street as Holmes' residence. He has lived there ever since.

CRAIG TRIAL JURY SAID DEADLOCKED

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(UP)—The jury in the conspiracy trial of Appellate Justice Gavin W. Craig, Mrs. Helen Werner and Joe Weinblatt was reported deadlocked on a 9 to 3 vote today after more than 12 hours of deliberation.

Meanwhile attorneys protested Federal Judge Jeremiah Neterer's announced intention to go to Las Vegas, Nev., tomorrow and said they would oppose having another judge receive the verdict.

The three defendants in the case were charged with conspiracy in connection with an alleged attempt to impede justice in the Italo Petroleum corporation mail fraud cases.

PRISONERS GASSED IN ESCAPE ATTEMPT

NEWARK, N. J., March 2.—(UP)—Fifty-one prisoners attempting to escape from the house of detention were trapped on the prison roof today and overpowered by policemen and guards armed with tear gas bombs and riot guns.

The 51 men surrendered and were herded back to their dormitory. Eleven ring-leaders were taken to the Village street prison, where Guard Charles Gutch entered the third floor dormitory, where 51 men were sleeping early today for routine inspection. He was overpowered and bound with bedsheets,

JURY FINALLY COMPLETED IN LAMSON TRIAL

Seven Men, Five Women Selected to Determine Fate of Youth

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 2.—(UP)—Santa Clara county housewives, drawn from their cook stoves by the state's subpoenas for jury service, formed the largest single element today among the jury of seven men and five women selected to decide the fate of David A. Lamson, charged with murder.

There will be four housewives in the group of 12 persons who on Monday will hear the state open its case against the former state press official whose wife died in the bathtub of their campus home on May 30, 1933.

Kindly, motherly-appearing persons are the four, Mrs. Ella Bostwick, San Jose; Mrs. Elsie Yanish, Sunnyvale; Mrs. Rose Rawlings and Mrs. Emma Barton, residents of San Jose suburbs.

BELIEVE MISSION WORKER EXECUTED

SHANGHAI, March 2.—(UP)—The United Press received an unconfirmed report today that the Rev. S. C. Frenchman, Australian missionary, had been executed by the bandits who last week captured the mission worker and his wife.

The report came from a source which credited it to Chinese government troops returning from Ningchiang, where the Frenchman had been kidnapped. Previous reports have said that Mrs. Frenchman, separated from her husband by the bandits, was killed soon after their capture.

The soldiers, apparently members of the garrison defeated by the bandits in the sack of Ningchiang, did not know what had happened to Mrs. Frenchman, who was an expectant mother.

Not could the government troops give any details of the missionary's reported death.

RELIEF COMMITTEE OF STATE IN MEET

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(UP)—The state relief committee met in emergency session today to seek a solution to the most acute relief crisis in the state's history.

With federal relief appropriations cut 40 per cent, the committee was to attempt to find new funds more than 1,000,000 destitute and decide how much work will be continued under the shortened allowance.

State SERA Director Frank V. McLaughlin estimated that relief checks would have to be reduced from $40 to $30 this month.

Dr. Glen Carlson of San Bernardino was to preside at the conference.

JAPAN OBJECTS TO MORE LOANS FOR CHINESE

Demand Strongest Security and Frown on Aid From Foreign Nations

TOKYO, March 2.—(UP)—Japanese financiers, who already have a $3,000,000,000 loan at stake in China, would advance more funds to the "sick man of Asia" only on the strongest kind of security and strictly for non-political purposes, they indicated today.

They do not regard the national government of China as a sufficient guarantor that any moneys advanced to that nation would be repaid.

Reports that the United States and Great Britain were considering an international consortium to aid China financially met considerable skepticism in banking circles here. Government authorities refused to comment pending the receipt of more definite information.

Bankers recalled that three times in the last year there have been reports that the nations of the world were willing and ready to loan China money.

The Japanese financiers are willing to study any new proposals but they indicated they would proceed with extreme caution in joining any agreement.

They would be willing to grant individual loans or extend credit to individual Chinese companies upon adequate security.

Japan's "hands off China" policy also must be considered in any international negotiations to aid China.

On April 17, 1934, Elji Amann, foreign office spokesman, informed the world that Japan would regard as "unfriendly" any foreign political or military aid to China and would like to be consulted before any funds are advanced to the republic founded by Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

Amann recently gave notice that Japan still regards herself as the "overlord of East Asia," and that the "hands off China" policy still holds.

DOCK WORKERS IN FRISCO IN PROTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—(UP)—Docking of the German navy cruiser Karlsruhe here today precipitated a demonstration by 40 longshoremen, a half hour strike to protest Nazi tactics, and a fist fight between civilians and longshoremen.

Crowding the bulkhead between the pier as the cruiser nosed its way toward the dock were 40 longshoremen, booing loudly, and 150 civilians—mostly members of the German colony here.

As the German officers walked down the gangplank, the boing grew louder. The civilians made an effort to quiet the longshoremen. Suddenly there was a scuffle. Two civilians were knocked down. Their assailant was captured.

DIARY MAY REVEAL SOLUTION OF DEATH

OAKLAND, Cal., March 2.—(UP)—A diary and an 18-year-old girl whose love was cooling were expected by authorities today to help solve the mystery of the sudden deaths of two of the three women who married 31-year-old Louis Gosden.

District Attorney Earl Warren of Alameda county guarded closely the contents of the diary, said to have been written by Mrs. Laura Silva Gosden, third wife of the man whom Warren said he would charge with murder.

Wife No. 3 died in convulsions last November. Gosden said she had eaten "tuna fish and milk." Her death certificate gave pneumonia as the cause. Warren said pathologists had found traces of strychnine in her stomach when the body was exhumed.

After her death Gosden employed Mrs. Lydia Sanborn, 18, as his housekeeper. They planned to marry.

WILL PROBE INTO DEATH OF HEIRESS

PINEHURST, N. C., March 2.—(UP)—Death of Mrs. H. Davidson Davidson Jr., Statler hotel heiress, was surrounded "by very suspicious circumstances," Solicitor Roland Pruett said today in announcing he would insist upon a thorough investigation.

Mrs. Davidson, a bride of two months, was found dead in her automobile Wednesday morning, apparent victim of carbon monoxide poisoning. The solicitor has halted a coroner's inquest, however, and will question relatives, servants and friends Tuesday.

"I am inclined to discount the theory that she may have committed suicide," Pruett said. "Certain other points eliminate the accident theory. There are very suspicious circumstances in connection with her death."

Coast Guns Are Brought Into Action

Revolution Believed Headed by Former Premier; Casualties Heavy

ATHENS, Greece, March 2.—(UP)—Premier Panagiotis Tsaldaris' government, seeking to suppress a revolt led by naval forces, issued an ultimatum today that the rebel warships would be torpedoed unless they surrendered immediately.

At 4:45 p. m., airplanes loaded with torpedoes departed to attack the rebel warships. It was rumored that Venizelos had promised to board one of the rebel warships at Crete.

Two merchant ships were sunk at the entrance to Salonica harbor to the north to prevent the escape of rebel ships or an attempt by the rebels to enter.

Bombing airplanes roared over the Aegean sea pursuing five warships which escaped in rebel hands.

The revolt broke without warning to the public—though the government had expected it—simultaneously at sea and land.

Soldiers of the Evzones garrison on the outskirts of the capital rose in rebellion. Field artillery was put against them. Rebels returned the fire. Several rebels were reported killed. The government said in a communique at 11:20 a. m. (4:20 a. m. EST) that the garrison was subdued.

The rebel warships which were at sea were heading for Crete, birthplace of Venizelos, four times premier and four years a leading European statesman.

Aerial bombs, raining concentrated death on the rebel ships, crippled a destroyer and were reported to have damaged the cruiser Averoff, flagship of the Greek fleet, a ship of 9,400 tons with a crew of 670 officers and men.

Other ships of the rebel force took the destroyer in tow. Two governmental airplanes were damaged by fire from the rebels. The Averoff carries two 3-inch Vickers anti-aircraft guns.

They were in a desperate race to cover the 150 miles to Venizelos' home, hoping that he would lead them.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(UP)—Because the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked, Federal Judge Jeremiah Neterer late today declared a mistrial in the conspiracy case of Appellate Justice Gavin W. Craig, Mrs. Helen Werner and Joe Weinblatt.

BAYONNE, N. J., March 2.—(UP)—The 158-foot oil tanker Suburban, loaded with 130,000 gallons of oil, sank today at a pier in the Kill Van Kull.

The craft was owned by the Townsend Petroleum company of Bayonne.

NEOSHO, Mo., March 2.—(UP)—Three men dressed as hunters today looted the First National bank here of between $11,000 and $15,000 and escaped.

The bandits subdued employees, helped themselves to the cash and fled in an automobile.

RECORD HIGH ESTABLISHED BY TRADERS

Silver Reaches High Mark in Six Years as Pound Sterling Drops Sharply

PARIS FACES CRISIS

Rumors in London Indicate United States May Devalue Dollar Further

LONDON, March 2.—(UP)—Gold again soared to a record high today, silver made a six-year high and the pound sterling dropped to a record low in terms of the devalued American dollar. Speculators reportedly withdrew large sums from London.

Sharp and almost sensational declines in the pound, both in dollar and franc terms, continued to cause worry over the future of gold bloc currencies.

There was no evidence of operation of either the American or British control funds.

British leaders seemed unperturbed by the decline in the pound which would give the country an advantage in trade. In Paris, however, the situation was seen as dangerous. If the decline should gain such headway that the British control could not check it when it considered the time ripe to intervene, the gold bloc might be forced into devaluation, it was said.

Rumors were circulated that the United States, hampered by Britain's trade advantage, might devalue the dollar further.

American Policy

The American monetary policy is still on a 24-hour basis, according to a recent statement by Secretary of the treasury Morgenthau, and the president has the power to devalue the dollar further to 50 per cent of former parity. That means the United States could raise its gold price to $41.34. The rumors on that score were discounted generally here.

Gold was quoted here at 144 shillings 19-1/2 pence per ounce. At the time of fixing the gold price that figure worked out to an American equivalent of $35.18 per ounce which would make the American dollar theoretically 99.49 cents. Later as the pound dropped to $4.78, the equivalent was

BUDGET PLANS INJECTED INTO RELIEF FIGHT

President Confers Again on Bill With Leaders Before Taking Action

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—Renewed demands for a balanced budget were injected today into swift-moving negotiations seeking a compromise on the work-relief bill now lodged in a senate committee.

Amendments providing method of financing the $4,800,000,000 program were ready for submission when debate on the bill is resumed in the senate. Just when that will be still was indefinite.

The bill passed the house more than a month ago, was brought to the senate floor after a bitter fight over the prevailing wage scale issue in committee and after a brief but stormy debate was rushed back to the committee by administration leaders.

The new demand for tacking on the financing schedule gathered support from both Democrats and Republicans and was being molded into the nucleus of a new action plan for a balanced budget.

Two or more resolutions were ready to be offered. One would propose the measure be amended to require sale of bonds before any work-relief money is spent. Another was that the senate finance committee be called upon to furnish the senate with a list of possible new taxes that might be invoked to provide the work-relief fund.

President Roosevelt, who was represented by Sen. Carter Glass, D., Va., as certain to veto a work-relief bill carrying the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, conferred at length with his leaders. He sent his congressional leaders a revised amendment which he proposed to substitute for the McCarran amendment. Numerous conferences during the 48 hours since the president returned from a brief visit to Hyde Park, N. Y., brought offers of settlement from both sides, but no agreement.

The administration's plan would require payment of prevailing wages on work projects which employed the types of labor used in private industry. It would leave the president free to pay the security wage, about $60 per month, on soil erosion work and other projects where labor could not be attracted from private enterprise.

The forces lined up behind Sen. Pat McCarran, D., Nev., would not discuss the proposal.

The allotments included general relief grants up to March 15, and money for special programs such as drought relief, transient care and student aid for the whole month. No grants were made for rural rehabilitation.

The allotments included: Arizona, $393,140; California, $5,515,960; Nevada, $142,900.

HOLDS UP GROCER SO BABES CAN EAT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 2.—(UP)—A gray-haired old woman, willing to rob rather than see her grandchildren go hungry, today had plenty of food for the youngsters after attempting to hold up a grocery.

Mrs. Louise Knappe, 60, walked into T. B. Perkins' grocery with a baby under her arm and ordered some milk and oranges.

The grocer wrapped up the order and held out his hand for payment. Mrs. Knappe produced a toy pistol and shouted, "I'll kill you if you try to take these away," as she backed from the store with the food and the baby under her arm.

Perkins called police, who, after a short search, found her at home.

FUGITIVES ESCAPE AND TAKE HOSTAGE

ARAPAHOE, Okla., March 2.—(UP)—Three Granite reformatory fugitives seized Dr. Fred Lewis Myers and his automobile at Leedey today and fled with him as hostage. A posse of 56 peace officers was in pursuit.

The trio was believed to include Maloy (Red), Kuykendall, Dale Stanphill and W. L. Baker Jr., the fugitives identified in the robbery of a bank at Seiling Wednesday.

ARMY SPEED PLANES LEAVE KELLY FIELD

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 2.—(UP)—Forty army speed planes of the 17th pursuit group, March Field, California, took off from Kelly Field here today, hoping to reach their home base before nightfall. The flight is in command of Capt. Ira C. Baker.

The planes, of the new Boeing pursuit type, arrived Thursday, from Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala.

They expected to refuel at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, Tex., and at Tucson, Ariz. The group expected to traverse the 1150 miles to March Field in one day.

The single-seater ships are designed especially for high altitude flying. The motors being supercharged for flying at 30,000 feet or above. Regular oxygen equipment for such flights, however, was not made a part of the squadron's equipment for the present trip. The planes have a top speed of approximately 250 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 175 miles an hour.

Zero hour nears in Cuban revolt

HAVANA, March 2.—(UP)—Zero hour for a decisive test of the government's strength drew near today with a call for members of the labor confederation to be ready for a general strike.

Interurban freight drivers announced a strike at midnight after their rejection of a government compromise on demands for better working conditions.

The railroad brotherhood of the United Railways issued a manifesto supporting striking students and teachers and announcing it was "ready to act."

SUPPLY FUNDS TO FEED HOUSE NEEDY PERSONS

Emergency Relief Administration Allots 56 Million Dollars

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—The Emergency Relief Administration today allotted $56,576,574 to feed and house the nation's 21,000,000 needy until March 15.

Allotments were withheld from 12 states and Hawaii, some of which have failed to meet demands of Administrator Harry L. Hopkins that they share in the financial burden of caring for their own unemployed.

Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Vermont, Washington and Hawaii allotments were held up, at least temporarily.

The allotments came from an $800,000,000 fund lent PERA by the public works administration. In all, $175,000,000 has been transferred from federal construction funds for relief.

The allotments included general relief grants up to March 15, and money for special programs such as drought relief, transient care and student aid for the whole month. No grants were made for rural rehabilitation.

The allotments included: Arizona, $393,140; California, $5,515,960; Nevada, $142,900.

REHABILITATION CONGRESS TO BE ORGANIZED

Organization of a Congress for Permanent Rehabilitation in Orange County was advanced a stage last night when a mass meeting in the Willard school determined that such action should be taken, and named H. F. Kenny as temporary chairman and Harry W. Bedford as temporary secretary. The motion was made following explanations of what the congress is doing in Los Angeles county, where the movement was started, by J. J. Entin, president of California Cooperative units, one of the participating organizations.

Entin explained that membership in the congress is held by organizations, and not by individuals as such. The congress is designed as a spearhead for the effective operation and coordination of the various progressive movements and organizations of the county, he said. Through its initiative, a Permanent Rehabilitation Exposition, with the support of the Los Angeles county board of supervisors, is planned for the Shrine auditorium, Los Angeles, March 16 to 17.

A state wide convention of the congress will be held at the same time, when prominent speakers will discuss various features of the cooperative movements that are now getting under way. Los Angeles county, Entin stated, has set up a department of rehabilitation as a part of the county administration for the purpose of assisting the cooperatives in the exchange and disposal of the products for greater efficiency in their operation.

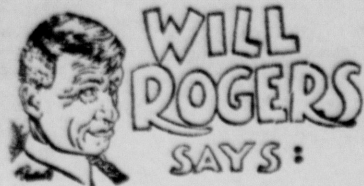

Professor Harry May, of London, England, who is the inventor and builder of Alpha, the robot, described as a ton of human steel and metal, and which will be one of the leading attractions at the exposition, was also present at the meeting last night, and spoke briefly. It was announced that more than 100 cooperative units will display production for use in actual operation, described as "a new system growing within the shell of the old."

Kenny, who was chairman of last night's meeting, issued a call for the various progressive organizations in the county, each to appoint a delegate and an alternate who will meet in Santa Ana March 11, to complete organization and select state convention delegates.

Westover First To File Papers In Attorney Race

Nomination papers for city attorney were filed by Harry Westover, 1527 East Fourth street, and papers for councilman in the fifth ward were taken out yesterday by J. A. Gajski, 1015 West Sixth street. It was learned from City Clerk Ed Vegely that Westover is the sixth candidate to file his papers and is the fourth man to definitely make overtures for the post of city attorney. His filing was the first for that position.

Gajski, a furniture manufacturer, is a resident of the ward now represented on the council by Plummer Burns.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:
BEVERLY HILLS, March 2. (To the Editor of The Register): Good deal of news today. King of Siam abdicates. He always seemed like a pretty nice little fellow, but a King is sort of like a politician, its hard to tell when he is making good or bad. The Saar Valley was officially turned back to Germany yesterday. Too bad they don't allow the islands they took away from Germany to vote on whether they wanted to go back too. You know that's always been a sort of touchy point with these big allied nations, they don't like to have anybody bring up the subject of the gobbling up Germany's possessions. That's the skeleton in their closet that they are not so proud of. You can get you a baby bond, or a pound of baby beef, they both cost the same.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

GOLD SOARS TO NEW RECORD ON BRITISH MARKET

reduced to $35.10, or only 10 cents an ounce above the American gold parity of $35 per fine ounce.

At $4.78 for the pound, it was worth $2.82 in terms of the depreciated American dollar at $9.06 per cent of former parity or a record low. On a straight dollar basis the pound was a new low since October, 1933.

Paris Market
In the Paris market the pound was sold steadily. It dropped to 71.90 francs to the pound, a record low and closed there, against yesterday's close of 72.83 francs.

Heavier purchases of gold were made in the London market today. A total of $63,100 pounds ($1,734,000) was taken in the open market. All of it was reportedly bought for shipment to Paris.

American support, attracted by the break in sterling, was reported an active factor in the silver market where prices boomed. The pound sterling strengthened in dollar terms late in the session on short covering and closed at $4.79 3/4. Yesterday's close was $4.82 7/8.

FRENCH FINANCIERS FEAR CURRENCY WAR

PARIS, March 2.—(UP)—French financiers today feared renewal of a currency war involving principally the dollar and the pound. The pound sterling continued to decline in terms of gold, the dollar and the franc.

The French believe the British stabilization fund has purposely ceased operation to permit the pound to sink to lower levels, which would be advantageous to the British. They have been in difficulty, and many believe they want further devaluation of the pound.

French spokesmen reiterated that the pound decline would not affect France's adherence to the gold standard. A heavy influx of gold to the Bank of France has been noticed since the pound decline started. The drain of gold from London may be partly responsible for the pound's weakness.

The pound today broke to a record low in terms of the French franc. It closed at 71.90 francs, against 72.83 yesterday. The American dollar closed at 15.01 francs (6.662 cents a franc), against yesterday's close of 15.05 (6.645 cents a franc).

U. S. OFFICIALS NOT ALARMED, REPORTED

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—Government fiscal authorities scanned without comment today cables from Europe telling of new disturbances in the world financial markets touched off by a sharp decline in the British pound sterling.

Pursuing their usual policy of silence regarding movements in world money markets, treasury officials were non-committal as to London and Paris financial developments.

Last minute foreign exchange quotations were rushed to treasury experts in order that the United States might map a program to deal with the rapidly declining pound. The decline may have a deflationary effect on American prices.

This is in conflict with the Roosevelt program which involved a forced cheapening of the American dollar to $9.06 per cent of its former gold content in an effort to increase inflationary American prices.

The new decline in the pound today more than matched the forced depreciation of the American dollar. This left the American dollar at a relatively higher level than several years ago in relation to the pound.

Treasury officials professed no alarm over the new European developments. They pointed to the government's almost unused $2,000,000,000 exchange stabilization fund which might be employed to offset adverse influences in the world financial markets.

FIREMEN GIVE FIRST ANNUAL BENEFIT SHOW

With Humorist Ted Cook acting as master of ceremonies, the first annual benefit show of the Orange County Firemen's association was held in the Tustin high school last night before a large audience.

The burlesque beauty chorus sponsored by the Midway City fire department provided a humorous contrast.

George Glough, organizer of Westminster, offered selections on the organ. Dan Grant of Laguna Beach, was accompanist for several acts.

The show committee was composed of Wilbur Fipps of Santa Ana, Chief M. E. Williams of Yorba Linda and Harry Brockbank of Tustin. Departments sponsoring acts were Laguna Beach, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Tustin, Brea, Buena Park, Midway City, Santa Ana, Yorba Linda, Seal Beach and Westminster.

President R. D. Woodward of Laguna Beach expressed the appreciation of the county association to the artists who offered their services for the show. Frank McGowan was in charge of the stage for the program.

AID GROUP HOLDS ALL DAY MEETING

GARDEN GROVE, March 2.—An all day session of the Woman's Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church was held in the church parlors Thursday. 60 members and friends being present.

Richards Funeral Set for Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence H. Richards, wife of Tom Richards, president of the Richards Trucking company of Santa Ana and Los Angeles, will be held Monday at 8 a. m. at the Cunningham and O'Connor funeral home, 1015 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

Beach Operator Brings In Well

Dunlap, Long Beach and Huntington Beach oil operator, has brought in as a big producer the second well to be drilled in on the Playa Del Rey hills near Venice, an extension area of the Venice field. The well hit the sand at 6450, 50 feet shallower than the discovery well, the C. W. Ford No. 1.

Dunlap has another lease in the field about 1000 feet southeast of his new well and will immediately start a second well.

Five Smart and Final Employees Go to Wilmington

Current reports that the main offices of the Smart and Final company were being moved to Wilmington were denied today by R. K. Manker, company manager. Manker explained that only about five of the staff at the Smart and Final offices here, who are corporation employees, are being transferred to Wilmington, where President A. W. Lutz maintains his offices.

The set-up here will not be affected, Manker said.

JURY FINALLY COMPLETED IN LAMSON TRIAL

lives near here, Gus Mauer, bald and grinning, also is a rancher at Sunnyvale.

These 12 were sworn late yesterday and the court immediately recessed until Monday.

A jury had been selected late Thursday but it was recalled when it was learned one of those chosen was a relative by marriage to John P. Fitzgerald, deputy district attorney assisting in the prosecution.

The division of men and women among the jury finally sworn—seven to five—was the same as that of the jury which in an earlier trial found Lamson guilty of first degree murder and recommended that he be hanged. The state supreme court reversed the verdict and ordered the new trial which will be in its tenth day when testimony begins Monday.

The first witness will be Dr. Robert Sailer and Dr. Blake Wilbur, autopsy surgeons who found the skull fractures which caused Mrs. Lamson's death—either from a blow, as the state charges, or from a fall, as the defense maintains.

S. A. PLAYERS TAKE PART IN PLAY TOURNEY

Praised as one of the noteworthy productions presented as part of the Fourth Annual Tournament of One-Act Plays of the Los Angeles County Drama Association, "A Night at an Inn" by Lord Dunsany were given last night in Hollywood by the Santa Ana Community Players.

The Santa Ana production was not selected to compete in the finals tonight by the judges but received commendation from the capacity audience at the Writer's club, which included a large group of Santa Anans. Four other plays were given last night, which was the third successive night for competing groups.

The cast of the Dunsany play was largely the same that appeared five years ago in several presentations in Southern California, and was directed by Mrs. Harriet Owens Enderle. Of a supernatural trend, the play concerned four English sailors who have stolen the ruby eye of a giant idol in a Hindu temple and are pursued by three priests and finally by Klesh, the idol.

Frank Lansdown enacted the part of The Toff, leader of the sailors, and his companions were T. H. Glenn as Albert Thomas, Arthur Collins as William Jones and J. Wylie Carlyle as Jacob Smith. Minor characters were Fred Humiston, Robert Smith and F. Wayne Flynn as priests and John Dunlap as the idol.

The plays selected to compete in the finals tonight were "Full Beakers" by Touchstone Drama Shop of U. S. C., "In a Balcony" by Cap and Bells of U. C. L. A., "Noc-turne" by the Gold Hill Players of Monrovia, and "A Wedding" by Edison Players.

The two winners from the Los Angeles plays, together with the two winners in the Southern California Tournament of One-Act Plays to be held in Santa Ana in April, will compete in the Allied Festival of Arts.

DRIVER CLEARED OF DEATH BLAME

J. D. Balfour of Laguna Beach was absolved of blame in the death of Al Burns, 48, Laguna Beach man who was fatally injured in an automobile wreck near Laguna Beach on February 14, by a coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday at the Laguna Beach funeral home.

Burns died early Thursday from his injuries and funeral services were held today in Laguna Beach. He was agent for the Southern California Edison company in Laguna Beach and was well-known throughout Orange county.

Coroner Earl Abbey questioned Balfour, driver of the car, and California Highway Patrolman D. D. Adams concerning details of the wreck. It was brought out that the car overturned while rounding a turn on the Coast highway. Burns was believed on his way to recovery after the wreck but took a sudden turn for the worse this week.

His death brought the total of fatalities in the county this year to 8, two more than at this time last year.

COAST GUNS ARE BROUGHT INTO ACTION

Averoff as its men worked their anti-aircraft guns.

The airplanes were shuttling at top speed between shore and sea. At each halt they took on new loads of bombs.

Late arrivals got orders to sink all the warships without mercy unless they ran up the white flag at once.

(The Exchange Telegraph Athens correspondent at Athens reported martial law was in force but said the city was normal.)

Premier Panagiotis Tsalderis in frequent statements asserted that the situation was under control and that the revolt had failed.

The government moved with extraordinary vigor to suppress it. A series of decrees was issued abolishing the senate, in which Venizelists have a majority, suppressing Venizelist newspapers throughout the country, and setting up courts martial to try leaders at once. It was expected the death penalty would be meted.

One rebel leader was reported under close arrest—Alexander Panagiotis, leader of the Venizelist Agrarian-Labor party.

The government asserted in a communique that it had mastered the situation at the naval arsenal at Piraeus and it was assumed the four ships there had surrendered.

PRISON TERM GIVEN THEFT DEFENDANT

Cecil Moon was convicted of grand theft yesterday at a trial before Superior Judge H. G. Ames, who sentenced him to Potosi for a term of from one to ten years. During the trial the court dismissed a robbery charge, based upon the same incident, the alleged taking of $14 from C. E. Chilcoat last January 21.

After announcing his intention of appealing the case, Moon was granted a stay of execution of sentence until after March 16, the date set for the trial of Bert Stark, 31, of Orange, charged with the same offense.

CONE RETIRES FROM U. S. SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—Rear Admiral Hutchinson I. Cone, retired, U. S. N., former head of the United States Shipping board, has resigned. Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper announced today.

Roper, who received the resignation, declined to discuss the reason but it was reported that he and Cone were at odds over shipping policies.

Cone was appointed to the shipping board during the Coolidge administration and reappointed by President Hoover and made chairman of the board by President Roosevelt.

Later, the shipping board was transferred to the department of commerce as the bureau of United States shipping. Cone was then made chairman of a special shipping board to advise with Secretary Roper on shipping questions.

OIL CONTROL BILL SUCCESS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—Oil Administrator Harold I. Ickes predicted today that re-establishment of the federal tender board in East Texas "will immediately result in a sharp decrease in the production of illegal oil."

The board was reorganized after President Roosevelt gave it legal status late yesterday by signing the newly passed Connally oil bill. "I anticipate that the operations of the new tender board will be equally as successful as the tender board which was in operation at the time Section 9-C of NRA was declared invalid, and will immediately result in a sharp decrease in the production of illegal oil," Ickes said.

Piano Studio Is Opened In Store

Announcement was made today of the opening of the Mary Bridge-water-Hay Piano studio in the Foster-Barker Music store, 309 North Broadway.

Mrs. Hay, a graduate of the University of Southern California and composer of piano music, comes to Santa Ana from the studio of Harold Rhodes, 737 South Hill street, Los Angeles, where she has been instructor, teaching the Rhodes system of popular piano music.

The Rhodes system will be the foundation for instruction in the new studio, it was announced, and lessons will be given either at Mrs. Hay's home, 405 East Myrtle, or at the music store.

LARGE NUMBER OF CASES IN COURT FRIDAY

A record calendar was handed by Presiding Judge James L. Allen in superior court yesterday, 32 matters coming before his department of the court. These included 17 criminal cases and seven divorce hearings.

Incidentally it was a busy day for the Thompsons in this court also. Every attorney in the county named Thompson; Roland, of Newport Beach; Raymond, of Fullerton, and Martell, of Orange, received appointment to defend a criminal case—without compensation.

Such appointments are made alphabetically from the list of attorneys. Yesterday it was the T's turn.

REPORT HEAVY PUBLIC SALE OF BABY BONDS

Santa Ana investors welcomed Uncle Sam's "baby bonds" when they were placed on sale at the local postoffice for the first time yesterday.

During the first day of the sale a total of $2225 in maturity value and $1650 in cash was received on sale of the bonds at the local postoffice, making it necessary to place another order immediately, according to postal officials.

A surprising thing to postal employees was that the larger denominations of the baby bonds were in greater demand than the smaller ones. All of the $500 bonds received here were sold at once, and new postal officials have ordered some of the $1000 bonds, none of which were received in the initial shipment Thursday.

The initial shipment included 20 of the $25 bonds, 20 of the $50 bonds, 20 of the $100 bonds and 5 of the $500 bonds. When these were sold the post office will requisition more of the bonds, Smith said. Prices at which the "baby bonds" will sell are as follows: $25 bonds for $18.75, $50 bonds for $37.50, $100 bonds for $75 and $500 bonds for $375.

The bonds are to be held by the purchasers for 10 years, when they mature at their face value. They cannot be cashed for 50 days following purchase, are not transferable and draw no interest if cashed within a year's time. After the first year of holding the bonds, they pay 2.9 per cent interest.

Close Escape for Superintendent of Postoffice Here

Superintendent of Mails L. F. Harvey of the Santa Ana postoffice had a close call, and a most unpleasant experience yesterday afternoon when he was accidentally locked in the massive postoffice safe.

Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith had just taken some stamps from the safe and had turned his back. In the meantime Harvey went into the safe, closed the safe doors and locked Harvey in the dark safe, moving to another part of the building.

Later Postmaster T. E. Stephenson heard a light tapping on the safe door, opened it and found Harvey trying to attract attention by tapping on the door with his pocket knife.

Lighthall Faces Charge of Theft

Roy Lighthall, 26, 1416 West Sixth street, charged with petty theft, was arrested last night and today had his answer to arraignment set for Monday morning by Judge Kenneth Morrison in the Santa Ana justice court.

Lighthall is accused by Marie Patterson of the General Bottling company with stealing $119.44, according to the complaint. The alleged offense occurred last September. Bail was fixed on the defendant at $500.

forces during the 1934 political campaign.

Unemployment Insurance, issuance of scrip, establishment of state subsistence farms, state aid for self-help co-operatives, extension of homestead privileges, moratorium on debts and shorter working days and weeks also were offered as unemployment aids.

Advance indications were that the assembly would be inclined toward liberalism in reorganizing systems of the past and meeting changing economic and social conditions, while the senate would continue its traditionally conservative course so far as possible.

A majority of the senate was expected to support Governor Frank F. Merriam's program. In the assembly, a Democratic-left wing Republican bloc appeared to have gathered strength enough to cause the administration trouble in controversial matters.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

The gloomy grief of one depresses you; the blundering frivolousness of another grates upon you. The temptation to seek sympathy by making people sorry for you must be avoided. A rapid pace of forgetfulness must not be condoned. Those who know about your sorrow realize that you are traveling a hard road. People are awkward in expressing themselves, but you will feel their sincere sympathy, if you cease trying to play a part. Ask God to help you do your share in increasing the happiness of others, and you will be relieved of anxiety as to what people are thinking about you.

HISTORIANS ASK RETENTION OF STREET NAME

Many visitors were present in addition to members of the Orange County Historical society at a meeting last night in Bowers Memorial Museum on North Main street when four interesting papers were delivered and resolution adopted concerning the changing of the name of Cubbon street and a prize contest to be staged by the society.

A feature of the evening was the presentation by President T. E. Stephenson of a copy of "The Life of Jeddiah Smith" to Dr. C. D. Ball, former president, as a token for his long service to the society. Dr. Ball acknowledged the gift in a brief talk.

Mrs. J. E. Pleasant read an interesting paper on "The Serrano Family," with an explicit and informative paper on "The English Colony of El Toro" prepared by Mrs. Caroline Yoch Barnett read by Mrs. Robert T. Ashby.

C. E. Roberts read a paper on "The Old Rodriguez Adobe" in which he explained thoroughly the structure of the adobe of California and the method and plan by which they were built. He also illustrated his paper with photographs and maps showing the location of the adobe of Rodriguez.

"The Adobes of San Juan Capistrano Outside the Mission" was the subject of a sketch by Alfonso Yorba, who lives in the mission town. This talk was illustrated with many pictures of the old adobes located in San Juan Capistrano, some of them being 150 years old. The pictures were shown on a screen.

A resolution requesting the Santa Ana city council to retain the name of Cubbon street, because it was named for a distinguished pioneer of this city, was adopted and ordered sent to the board of trustees of the city. The resolution also asked that the name Cubbon be applied to the eastern extension of the street, now known as Beverly Place.

Another resolution passed offered a prize of $5.00 to the writer of the best poem on some phase of California history. The contest will be confined to students of junior colleges in the state.

The next meeting of the society will be on May 2.

Three Spokane youths, Gordon Caston, 17, Edw. Martin, 16, and Eugene Hall, 17, who carried a veritable arsenal in their car when arrested recently at San Clemente for burglary of the Beacon service station at Doheny Park, probably will be turned over to Spokane authorities, it was announced today by local juvenile authorities.

The youths had been certified to juvenile court here when arraigned before Justice Jack Landell at San Juan Capistrano on the burglary charge. Spokane authorities will have authority to punish the youths for their actions in California, as they also face burglary charges in Spokane, where they stole guns and ammunition before blazing a bandit trail through Oregon and California. ## BULLETIN

An additional .14 of an inch of rain fell in Santa Ana from 7 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., making the total for the storm .95.

A rainstorm which drenched all of Orange county, more than an inch of rain falling in some places, descended during the early morning hours today, boosting seasonal totals far ahead of last year and bringing considerable benefits to agriculture.

Santa Ana received 31.27 inches of rainfall up until 7 o'clock this morning when measurements were taken on the Knox and Stout gauge. This brings the seasonal total up to 13.76 inches, as compared with 8.83 inches at this time last year. The total for last year was 9.32, while the average annual rainfall here is 12.44 inches.

Seven communities in Orange county reported rainfall of one inch or more in the almost torrential downpour this morning in the period which ended at from 7 to 9 o'clock, when readings were taken.

At Harkleroad camp on the Irvine ranch, below Culver's Corner, 1.25 inches of rain was reported, leading the list for amount. Buena Park was second with 1.13 inches of rain. Other communities which reported an inch or more were Fullerton, Newport Beach, Laguna Beach, Yorba Linda and Olive.

Anahem still leads the county with total rainfall for this season with 18.01 inches, more rainfall than has fallen since records have been kept in that city, even more than at this time in 1916, the year of the flood here when the total seasonal rainfall was 19.22 inches.

Little trouble was reported from the rain aside from flooded storm drains and most of the rainfall was absorbed.

15,340 Santa Ana Voters Qualify For Next Election

Santa Ana has 15,340 qualified voters registered for the city election April 8, it was announced today by County Clerk J. M. Backs, who has completed tabulating the registrations, which closed February 27.

The present total is 3590 less than the 18,930 registration on the books for the election last November 6. The decrease, Backs explained, is due to the wedding of non-voters from the registration list, as required after a voter fails to vote at either the primary or general election.

ROAD PATROL SAFETY CUP AWARD MADE

Despite a reduction of three deaths in Orange county traffic accidents last year over 1933, the championship trophy will be taken from Orange county to Sacramento county for the ensuing year, it was learned today by Captain Henry C. Meehan of the California Highway patrol.

The Orange county squad won the coveted prize for the best safety record in the state for 1933 and had hopes of repeating the achievement last year, but was nosed out by the Sacramento officers.

Reason for the California Highway Patrol's drive against excessive speed was explained graphically today in reports showing the heavy increase in automobile fatalities which have accompanied highway improvements and automobile development.

Blaming high speed for many of the accidents which claimed 2805 lives in California in 1934, E. Raymond Cato, chief of the patrol, said the drive against speed appeared to be netting results.

The year 1934 went on the record as the worst motor vehicle accident year in the state's history. There were 32,739 accidents in which 2805 persons were killed and 45,153 injured.

In Orange county as a whole during 1934, there were 53 traffic deaths, as compared to 55 in 1933, 86 in 1932, 78 in 1931, 56 in 1930 and 77 in 1929. Since many of these accidents occurred in incorporated areas of the county, the official total for the highway patrol records in 1934 was 36, as compared to 39 for 1933.

The silver cup, donated by the California Chamber of Commerce, was sent to Sacramento today by Captain Meehan, where it will remain for one year.

Intoxication played a part in the accidents, Cato reported. There were 3819 drivers "who had been drinking" involved in accidents in 1934, and 308 in 1933. Drinking pedestrians who figured in accidents numbered 734 in 1934 and 495 in 1933.

Fatalities throughout the state have been heavy during the past six years, when highways have been improved and cars made speedier. The records show 2244 persons were killed in 1929, 2334 in 1930, 2591 in 1931, 2366 in 1932, and 2403 in 1933.

More than 50,000 vehicles were involved in crashes. In an effort to curb the mounting death rate, Chief Cato ordered all patrolmen to enforce speed laws strictly. Motorists are allowed a leeway of five miles over the 45-mile limit, but are subject to being stopped and given a ticket if they exceed 50 miles an hour.

TOWNSEND PLAN TO BE DEBATED

Considerable interest was being shown today in the debate on the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension plan, which will be staged at the Santa Ana Valley Forum meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Ebell clubhouse. An admission fee will be charged.

The subject will be debated by Dr. Sheldon Shepard and Dr. Wolf Adler, both experienced debaters and well known for their interest in social and economic questions of the day.

Dr. Shepard is director of the People's American Forum and for four years was director of the Hollywood Forum. He is the author of several works and has been an advocate of the advancement of humanity into the new age of abundance.

Dr. Adler has been on the public platform for 20 years, and has debated with some of the leading minds of the country. For some years he was a lecturer over a New York City radio station.

NEW TYPE MYSTERY ON PASADENA STAGE

PASADENA, March 2.—Devotees of mystery tales will have a banquet of shudders, shivers and weird surprises, all garnished with fun, served up for them in "The Mystery of the Broadway Asylum", which will begin a two weeks engagement at the Pasadena Playhouse next Tuesday, March 5. It will be the national premiere of a new play adapted by Dr. Cecil Reynolds and Robert Chapin from the exciting novel of the same title by Dr. Reynolds.

Noted as a psychiatrist, Dr. Reynolds has long been known as a writer of interest in the theater, and he has drawn upon his wide experience for baffling situations in a retreat managed by a charlatan until Scotland Yard detectives take a hand. Glimor Brown will personify the character of this sick villain. With him will appear, by courtesy of Charles Chaplin, Mira McKinney, who is playing in the new Chaplin comedy, "My Beauty," a veteran character actress, Cy Kendall, Paul Hammond and other favorites of Playhouse audiences.

Arson Case Defendants Deny Guilt

Edward R. Tabor, owner of an apartment house at 409 Third street, Huntington Beach, and his tenant, Jess Sibley, who pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of criminal conspiracy in Judge James L. Allen's court, owed their predicament to the claim of John Rose, San Quentin prisoner, that they had "double-crossed" him, according to reports circulating in court circles.

Rose and Henry Eli were sent to San Quentin two years ago for a term of six and a half years, having been convicted of arson in connection with an attempt to burn the Tabor apartment house.

In a letter said to have been received by the district attorney recently from Rose was a tip that Tabor and Sibley had been involved in the arson attempt. Their arrest followed.

Following their denial of guilt yesterday, their case was continued to March 8, when the trial date will be set.

Marshall Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of passing two checks for $3 each to M. T. Edwards in Santa Ana February 3. Hearing of his plea for probation was set for March 8.

Severin Escor, charged with non-support of his child, in Anaheim township, pleaded not guilty and will have a trial March 24, at 10 a. m., in Judge Allen's court.

Angel Agurria pleaded not guilty to a charge of resisting an officer, Deputy Constable George Mabes, of Brea township, last July 19. His trial was set for March 12, at 10 a. m., in Judge Allen's court.

Charles Gillis of Cypress, who was placed on probation five years ago in connection with a liquor charge, was haled into court yesterday because he had failed to pay a $1500 fine assessed at that time. He had served a sentence of 90 days in jail and was said to have claimed that he did not need to pay the fine. In court he denied knowing anything about the fine, although court records showed that $5 of it had been paid. He was told to pay the balance by the morning of March 25, when his probation expires, or go to jail.

"I'm broke. You can't squeeze blood out of a turnip," Gillis told the court as he departed.

Robert Hoppenrath pleaded guilty to grand theft of an automobile from W. H. Jones at Huntington Beach. His plea for probation was set for hearing March 8.

Earl Brewer of Orange and James E. Moorman of Fullerton were arraigned on charges of non-support of children, and will enter their pleas on March 5. Charged with a similar offense, Walter Balz of Orange was sentenced to jail and ordered to work on the chain gang at $1 per day, to be paid to his family.

In Judge Scovel's court, Mrs. Florence Bailey won a divorce from Harold Bailey on charges of desertion. They married in San Bernardino October 25, 1925, and separated January 7, 1934.

S. Muroaka, official of a Stanton berry growers' association, who is charged with bribery in connection with prosecution of a case under the standardization laws, was denied release on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge George Scovel yesterday, and then pleaded not guilty to the charge before Judge Allen. DRUNK ARRESTS
FOR FEBRUARY
SHOW INCREASE

Arrests for drunkenness in Santa Ana for February showed an increase over the same month a year ago, with 49 incarcerations in February, 1935, and 41 in 1934, as was revealed in a report from the police department today.

The February arrest total for intoxication was slightly lower than January, when 59 persons were jailed, but police pointed out that with three less days in February, the ratio of arrests was the same for both months.

There were two alleged drunken drivers arrested last month, as compared to three in the same month a year ago and four in January.

The complete roster of arrests for February included drunkenness, 49; drunken driving, 2; assault, 6; fictitious checks, 2; cruelty to animals, 1; disturbing the peace, 1; grand theft of auto, 2; petty theft, 5; city license ordinance, 1; robbery, 1; California vehicle act, 29; city traffic ordinance, 109, and loitering, 1.

WILD FLOWERS NOW
SPREADING COLORS

BAKERSFIELD, March 2.—With the hills from Grapevine north to Kern river for 30 miles, already ablaze with color from the golden poppies and other flowers, the date of the Arvin Wild Flower festival will be announced next Wednesday, it was learned today.

Motorists are urged to take weekend trips to Bakersfield to see the wild profusion of wild flowers on the hills. Those who are not able to remain in California until the festival may visit Kern county at any time as the floor of the valley and slopes of the hillsides are extremely colorful with flowers, it is said. Among routes to be taken are from Los Angeles via Palmdale, Tehachapi and Arvin, or via the ridge route and return via Kernville and Walkers Pass.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON

NONCHALANCE

The likings which the New Dealers have been taking lately from the lower courts have caused remarkably little pain on the inside here. The New Deal lawyers are maintaining a nonchalance which certainly suggests that they have boards appropriately placed somewhere.

They cannot afford to say so out loud, but they really believe that five members of the Supreme Court can be counted on to support them whenever they put up a reasonably respectable case.

For this reason, they fear not the reversal suffered by the Tennessee Valley Authority in the Grubb decision. They believe the lower court will be reversed.

About the NRA adversaries (Weirton, Coal) they are not so sure. The truth is the best legal authorities have differed for some time about application of the NRA to businesses which are not in interstate commerce. You may recall that the D. of J. ducked the Weirton prosecution more or less openly for months until organized labor brought such pressure as to force it to prosecute.

PROMISE

What makes the New Dealers so certain that the court will uphold them whenever they give it a leg to stand on is a hidden paragraph in its decision nearly a year ago in the Minnesota mortgage case. The language then employed by the court was:

"Neither property nor contract rights are absolute; for Government cannot exist if the citizen may, at will, use his property to the detriment of his fellows, or exercise his freedom of contract to work them harm. Equally fundamental with the private right is that of the public to regulate it in the common interest."

That sounds like an excerpt from a Roosevelt speech, but the court said it last March.

LIBERALIZATION

What the New Deal thinks about the Constitution was disclosed recently in a speech privately delivered before a local club of attorneys by the New Deal coordinator, Donald Richberg. No record of the talk exists. A Congress tried to get a copy from Mr. Richberg's office and found the remarks had not been officially set down.

It would be accurate to say, however, that Richberg wanted the preamble of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence incorporated in that document in a judicial way. He protested against narrow legal interpretations. He wanted the Government to move unrestrained by legal technicalities to produce the greater good for the greater number.

One line ran something like this: "A government must fulfill the obligation not only to protect its citizens from fire, flood, pestilence, domestic violence and foreign aggression, but also from economic forces equally destructive and intolerable."

GOLD STATEMENT

Absurd rumors now are going around, suggesting that President Roosevelt would have appealed any adverse gold decision to the higher court of public opinion. As a matter of fact, the paragraph of a statement which had been prepared in advance, to be issued if the gold decision went against him, read as follows:

"The right of the Supreme Court to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional is not found in the Constitution. But without this right, those who make the laws would also pass on them, so that nothing could ever be found constitutional. Therefore it seems an inherent function of a written constitution that somebody, separate from the legal body, shall have the right to review their acts."

In other words, the New Deal was prepared in that statement, which now may never be published, to uphold the Supreme Court even if the Court did not uphold the New Deal.

PLAN

The White House has been very secretive about what it would have done had the decision gone the other way. It makes no difference now, but a five-hour program had been planned almost minute by minute to offset any ill effects of an adverse decision.

A flash statement would have been issued at once. It contained two paragraphs and was addressed primarily to the financial markets, assuring them there was no cause for alarm. An executive order was prepared and accompanied by a statement to the press, as was also a message to Congress and the draft of a bill. A time schedule had been worked out so this bill would have become a law within five hours after the decision was announced.

Mr. Roosevelt may some day include these in his memoirs.

NOTES

A member of the House suggested in a secret Democratic party conference recently that Father Coughlin be invited to address the House. The leaders froze the suggestion and the suggester with silence.

The FERA received a request from reliefers in St. Louis not long ago asking that relief wages be raised so that workers could pay their back union dues.

The relief diet may not encourage gout, but FERA reports indicate it is curing pellagra in certain sections of the South because it is a change from the customary menu.

The New Deal has won two out of three cases so far from the Supreme Court. It won a gold hoarding case last year and the gold case this year. It lost on hot oil.

A peculiar thing about the gold case is that the government had to argue that its gold policy was a failure, and won by so doing.

Vice President Garner became irritated at noise in the gallery a few days ago and said, "this noise has got to stop or I will put you out." Next day, the always socially correct Congressional Record edited the vice president's announcement to read: "The occupants of the gallery will refrain from any demonstration of approval or disapproval."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

Chairman Joe Kennedy of the Securities & Exchange Commission may be in for disappointment. He made it appear as a sweet force play when he informed the 26 banks whose stocks have been traded on the New York Produce Exchange that they will lose their registered status when the securities division of that Exchange goes out of business. He apparently expects them to heed his advice to list their stocks on one of the bigger exchanges. The institutions concerned are enjoying a quiet chuckle.

Several of the leading New York banks—including the Guaranty Trust and the Chemical—are on the list. But the point is that they never asked to have their stocks traded in on the Produce Exchange—nor in fact even gave permission for this to be done. The Produce Exchange sort of commandeered their securities without so much as a by-your-leave in the hope of building up its own volume of activity.

Furthermore, the "privilege" which they are supposed to regret losing is that of having their stock loans as collateral for brokers' loans. Nothing could please them more than just such a ban. Some bankers would like to go even further and have their securities declared ineligible as collateral for any loans whatever. It's true that some bank stocks are very widely held—but that doesn't mean the banks want them actively traded in. They much prefer their investors to stay put.

So the net response will be exact zero to Mr. Kennedy's suggestion.

BOSS

The next few weeks will tell who's going to run the New York Stock Exchange next year. Nominating committee sessions—open for the first time to non-members—will be lively affairs.

Richard Whitney's personal inclination to quit way be overruled. Some of his friends are insistent about drafting him for another term. They feel his retirement would turn their precious organization over to "interlopers"—probably for keeps.

Two rival candidates have been publicly mentioned. If John W. Hanes of C. D. Barney & Co. is chosen it will mean a decisive triumph for the Association of Stock Exchange Firms—the influential group of brokers who want the whole setup changed.

Charles L. Gay of Whitehouse & Co. would be more of a compromise. His firm is comparatively small but highly respected. It has operated longer under the same name than any other Exchange member.

E. Burd Grubb—ex-president of the Curb who has been forecast as Whitney's successor—is temporarily in the background. His sponsors found the idea of promoting a newcomer so rapidly didn't take very well. But he will bear watching the future.

Informal observers are amused at the insistence of Stock Exchange officials that they went beyond Securities & Exchange Commission recommendations by definitely arranging to admit office members to the board of governors—whereas the Commission had merely suggested such governorships be made permissive.

The Exchange is upset because it wants to use its zealous cooperation on this point to offset some of the Commission's less palatable suggestions. The publicity value of the move is lost if people insist on interpreting it as a compromise.

DISCRETION

New York gets a kick out of Bill Green's deft change of front toward the problem of unionizing the motor industry. Recently he was breathing fire about strikes to outlaw company unions. Now he's all in favor of olive-branch tactics. Comment runs that Bill was wise to pull in his horns before a showdown that would have been fatal to Federation prestige. "People with only one tooth shouldn't go around threatening to bite."

EDUCATION

Wall Street wonders whether Frank Hope—president of the Association of Stock Exchange firms—is getting delusions of grandeur. His proposal for a National Recovery Council to include (the sequence is Hope's) bankers, brokers, stock exchanges, industry, agriculture, labor, investors and the professions strikes observers as the most ambitious yet. His omission of the government was noted with glee.

His further suggestion that bankers and investment markets should educate the public to appreciate their functions through newspapers, magazines and the Congressional Record also stirred comment. "The Record doesn't sell advertising. Maybe he thinks we can pick up a few Congressmen at bargain rates."

SCARED

Some utility men are beginning to wonder whether they haven't overdone the scare technique on their security holders. There are signs that some of the latter—instead of feeling impelled to write their Congressmen—are so alarmed they are selling their securities. That's no help at all.

CLAIMS

There's a little detail the informed say you should consider if you're thinking of suing the government in the Court of Claims for damages due to non-fulfillment of the gold clause. Awards made by this court aren't worth a nickel until Congress appropriates to pay them. No wonder there's no rush to pass a law outlawing such suits.

SIDELIGHTS

Business statistics continue to show improvement. . . . Evidently the news hasn't gotten around that it's supposed to be in the doldrums because of Congressional uncertainties and gold decision delays. . . . Utilities get mild comfort from the fact that the holding company bill bears Rayburn's name. . . . What he sponsors usually gets modified.

REVIEW OF PAST
TWO YEARS TO BE BROADCAST MONDAY

The Columbia network's four star news commentators will play prominent parts in the two-hour program, "Of the People, By the People, For the People," to be broadcast over the CBS nationwide hook-up including KHL, starting at 11:30 a. m. Monday.

Boake Carter, H. V. Kaltenborn, Edwin C. Hill and Frederic William Wile, all of whom manned microphones at President Roosevelt's inaugural, will weave the elaborate radio review of the New Deal's first two years into a unified whole with running stories of the outstanding events since March 4, 1933.

The remarks of the commentators will be interspersed between direct reports by members of President Roosevelt's cabinet and other government officials on the problems they have faced since assuming office. All the talks will be welded by use of a unique production technique calling for brief dramatizations of the past two years' important events in each governmental division. A large cast of actors will present these dramatizations in the New York studios of CBS. Musical interludes will be supplied by the service bands.

In addition to pick-ups from the offices of cabinet members, Columbia plans to make other pick-ups from a Senate committee room, the House of Representatives in session, the Supreme Court, a battle-ship, the working quarters of one of the government's alphabetical units, and the White House.

Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education, will participate. The Commissioner's acceptance follows those of an impressive list of government officials including Vice President John N. Garner, Speaker of the House Joseph Byrnes, and virtually the entire Roosevelt cabinet. In accepting, the Commissioner said:

"From the days of our nation's infancy far-sighted leaders have seen and emphasized the basic need for public enlightenment. I anticipate that this broad cast will have great educational value since it will bring to the American public a veritable conclave of national leaders who have been given responsibility for the conduct of our government during two of the most critical years of its history."

STAMPSGETTING OUT
the VOTE

UNIQUE in the experience of political spellbinding is the issue of a set of stamps urging the inhabitants of the Saar to vote in their recent plebiscite. Under rule of the League of Nations since the war, this territory of 750 square miles, with a population of 800,000, has voted itself back to Germany.

The stamps that brought the people to the polls were those of 1934, six showing figures on the Ludwigskirche at Saarbrücken, and one a figure on the tomb of the Duchess Elizabeth at Lorraine, each over-printed with the legend, "Volksstimmung, 1935"—Plebiscite, 1935.

These, probably, are the last stamps of the Saar.

PAROLE LAWS
SUBJECT FOR PEACE OFFICERS

State parole laws and legislation affecting law enforcement will be discussed by Judge Daniel Beecher of Los Angeles at the regular meeting of the Orange County Peace Officers' association Wednesday night in the Orange American Legion hall at 6:30 o'clock.

The meeting is under the auspices of Chief R. R. Hodgkinson of Newport Beach, who moved the affair from Newport Beach to Orange because there was no adequate stage in the beach city for the presentation of the many vaudeville and entertainment acts scheduled for the evening. Sheriff Logan Jackson, newly-elected president of the group, will preside.

Judge Beecher, formerly on the superior bench in Los Angeles county and now working from the district attorney's office there, has had wide experience as a practicing attorney and has made a particular study of parole laws. He will explain changes that are included in bills introduced in the first session of the state legislature.

The professional entertainment was secured by Murray Howard Bala-Smith of Los Angeles, radio and vaudeville star, who will act as master of ceremonies. Among the talent to appear will be Ruth Strut, lyric soprano; Charlotte Bradford, coloratura soprano; Louise Mardiros, concert pianist; Henry Kaplan, comedian; Rosiland Harris, pianist; Adeline Gattoe, blues singer; Nick Foran, Fox studio singer; and the SERA dance orchestra.

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE whose father, now dead, had been her lover. It is a stormy night and she misses the return bus. Brian comes along and takes her home. She gets out of the car she turns and faces Steve.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII
Steve was not a dozen yards away. Even Brian recognized the constraint in the situation. He looked from Gale to the young man and then back again at the girl.

"Oh," she said, "hello, Steve. This is Mr. Westmore. Mr. Westmore, Steve Meyer."

"How do you do," Steve's voice was too level, too cool. "Your father's been worried about you," he went on, to Gale. "I've just been around to see if the bus held up somewhere."

"I didn't come on the bus," Gale told him. "I'd better go in," she said. "Good night—and thank you for bringing me home."

"Good night," Brian answered. There was really nothing else he could say. Who was this big silken-eyed fellow anyhow? Brian wondered about it as he slipped into the car and drove away. Was there something between those two? Was Gale Henderson in love with this—what had she called him?—Steve? Brian didn't like the idea. He didn't like it at all. It occurred to him suddenly how little he knew about the girl. Nothing, really, except that she'd gone to State at the same time he had, that she'd wanted to be a teacher and instead was working in the mill.

"And she's a darned nice girl," he added. "Darned nice." She hadn't said when he could see her again. Oh, well, this town wasn't such a big place—

UNAUTHORIZED USE OF NAMES CLAIMED AS CITIZENS PROTEST APPOINTMENT OF POSTMASTER

NEWPORT BEACH, March 2.—Evidence that names signed on the petition of W. H. Adams, recently appointed acting postmaster at Newport Beach, were unauthorized, will shortly be forwarded to Postmaster General James Farley in Washington by a group of Newport Beach citizens who will demand ouster of Adams on the ground that his appointment was fraudulently obtained.

This was stated today by City Attorney Roland Thompson, of Newport Beach, representing the protesting citizens of whom there are about 350, it is said.

Decision to carry the fight directly to the postmaster general followed an unsuccessful attempt to have the Orange County Democratic Central committee rescind its earlier recommendation of Adams for the appointment.

After a spirited debate of the issue last Wednesday night, when affidavits were laid before the central committee to show that a number of signatures on the Adams petition had not been placed there or authorized by their owners, the central committee refused to take action on the ground that it had no jurisdiction over the matter. The committee

Announcement of the meeting of the Booklovers' section on March 15 at the home of Mrs. B. A. Wisner at 615 East Acacia street was made by Mrs. E. G. Moler, leader of the section. Mrs. Genevieve Fording announced the cheese demonstration luncheon and card party to be held in the clubhouse March 8 at 12:30 o'clock to which the public is invited. Tables will be arranged for bridge and "500" and prizes will be awarded.

"Oh, did he? A look of craftiness had come into Steve's face. "Talked about the mill, did he? Listen, Gale, I should think you'd see through that sort of talk. You'd better watch your step! If Brian Westmore talked to you about what's going on at the mill he's trying to pump you. Get information so they can work us harder, grind us down and make more money for the company."

"He wouldn't," she said. "Wouldn't, huh? Say, don't make me laugh. If Brian Westmore wants to make things easier for employees and raise our pay, why doesn't he do it? What's to stop him? It's his mill, isn't it?"

"But he isn't running the mill. It's Thatcher."

"Then why doesn't he fire Thatcher? He certainly could do that. The whole thing's a pack of lies, a frame-up."

Disbelief showed from the girl's eyes. "No, Steve," she said. "I don't believe it. I don't believe he'd do anything like that."

"Then you're in love with him." She was on her feet, head high. "You mustn't talk like that, Steve. I know." Instantly he was contrite. "I shouldn't have said it. Forget it—won't you?"

"I will if you'll promise not to say it again—not to even think it."

"All right, I'll promise. But, just the same, I want you to remember what I've told you. There's something about it and it's risky trusting anyone."

Gale thought of Leota Boller and her talk of "secret meetings." Josie was sure that Leota was a spy. But Brian Westmore—oh, no, that was impossible.

Gale smiled. "I'll remember," she said. "And I'll be careful. Come on—let's go over to O'Connors'. Mrs. O'Connors will be anxious to hear how Mary likes her new coat."

They had to knock twice at the O'Connors' before anyone heard them. Then it was Katie who pulled the door open.

"It's Gale!" she called. Katie danced up and down with excitement. "Come on in," she said. "Pat's here and he's playin' the loveliest music—"

Gay notes of "The Stars and Stripes Forever" from a harmonica interrupted. Mrs. O'Connors

Gale shook her head. "I didn't come on the bus," she said. "I missed it, Brian Westmore brought me home."

"Brian Westmore!"

"Yes, he was coming along and saw the bus pull away and leave me. He stopped and said I could ride with him. He had to drive slowly because the road was so bad—"

"You're sure it was Brian Westmore?"

"Why, yes, I've seen him at the mill. He's working there now, you know."

Tom Henderson said, "Well, I'm glad you got home safely. A storm like this is liable to keep up all night." He moved toward the window and looked out. "It looks bad," he continued. "Sit down, Steve. Sit down and make yourself comfortable. I'm going to lie down for a while—"

"Well," he said, "it certainly was nice that your friend, Mr. Westmore, came along just when he did. That car of his must be a lot more comfortable than the bus."

"Steve!"

"Are you going to go through this all over again?"

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"Yes, you do. You know perfectly well. But it happened exactly as I said it did. Honestly—"

"Then why are you talking the way you are?"

Steve got up and came over beside her. "I didn't mean it," he said. "I don't know what's the matter with me. Only when you see the girl you think more of than anyone else in the world with some other fellow—a fellow who's got everything—it's sort of hard to take—"

She would have been defiant if he had continued to storm. This change of mood was different.

"I wish you'd understand, Gale said patiently. "Brian Westmore isn't interested in me."

"Then he must be crazy. He couldn't help it, Gale. A girl like you—"

She waved this aside. "But he

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Personal History by Vincent Sheean. Published by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

"Personal History" is the story, up-to-date, of a young journalist who had some adventures worth recounting and he tells them well.

One is sure to be fascinated with the book from that angle. It is, however, really more significant than any book of adventure. It marks a noticeable trend among younger writers toward a deeper thinking. Some one has put it well by saying that the post war generation is coming of age.

Following the war the writers and novelists, particularly those of the younger generation, were motivated by a hedonistic philosophy. Their world had gone to smash. They had gone forth in their youth, at the period of their lives when every individual, if he ever does think idealistically is motivated by ideals. And then they suffered disillusionment and they were embittered and became cynical and lost faith in man as well as in God. They professed to see affairs and men as they really were, but as a matter of fact, so bitter was their disillusionment that they saw things worse than they were. Now there is emerging a new faith in the future of the world and in men. It is so closely bound with a will to work constructively for the alleviation of the woes of the world as to be inseparable. This new attitude is evident in "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze."

Mr. Sheean himself deprecates the adventure angle of his life. The North American Newspaper Alliance for which he worked intermittently as a correspondent in various parts of the world hired him, after his adventuring in the area of the Riffian revolt to go to China and have some "personal adventures". He had passed beyond the stage of adolescent adventuring and his ultimate breaking with his journalistic past is one of the more interesting points of the book. He had come to feel so deeply about truth and justice that he could not maintain the dispassionate, neutral attitude toward the events he covered which was the ethical one for the correspondent.

R. L. Duffus who reviewed the book in the New York Times calls it a remarkable achievement in synthesis because the author has combined a book of travel, a book of adventure, and the story of a philosophy. He says further, "Despite wars and threats of wars, despite the morbid emphasis on nationalism, mankind today is probably nearer to some sort of collective consciousness than it has been since the Reformation. The fact itself is unhappily obscured by the doctrinal and regional forms it takes. To some of us it seems to be obscured by the doctrine of economic collectivism, to others by the refusal to accept that doctrine."

"A Chinese Testament" and "Man's Fate" are excellent to read for additional information and pictures of the Chinese section of this book which treat of the Chinese revolutions.

"Father Goose," the story of Mack Sennett by Gene Fowler published by Covell, Friede, is a racy book more racy than seriously biographical. The movie public will "eat it up". In addition to the presentation of an interesting character, Mack Sennett, a man with idiosyncracies which are made the most of, there is a lot of movie "behind the scenes" stuff which people are more eager for than they were in the early days of the moving picture industry on the coast. In those days high school students were actually expelled from school for visiting the movie sets. The book drags a bit in the forepart where Mack Sennett's boss Amos Cabot is presented. Surrounding him, however, as all the characters there are some amusing stories. Gene Fowler is a peer among story tellers and he has a wealth of material among the antics on and off the picture sets—and also, when it is noted that Charles Chaplin, was one of Mack Sennett's finds, that Gloria Swanson got her start in his pictures and that Mable Normand, Roscoe Arbuckle, W. C. Fields, and a long list of others work for him for many years. Mack Sennett was a pioneer in many phases of the moving picture business and therein is uttered some historical interest.

"Father Goose" never could be said to glorify or whitewash the personage of the industry. The book is entertaining reading but quite conceivably a not too wise expenditure of time, if one is a slow reader and doesn't stand in need of entertainment.

Alice James, Her Brothers and Her Journal, edited by Anna Robertson Burr, published by Duffield and Green.

A far cry from "Father Goose" to Alice James' book. There are those who will find this book more delightful than they ever found any of the more austere and important writings of the eminent William and Henry James. The James family life is a beautiful study. There is another view of the famous Concord society which affects some people with deep longings for something that is lacking in much of present day society.

Alice James was an invalid. Her writings are those of an observer of event for the most part. In spite of her physical condition, however, her mind was so sound and keen that the book has a steadfast vitality. Furthermore there is much poetic beauty. Altogether it is a book one cannot pass over without forfeiting something really fine.

POEMS OF SPRING

Caprice . . .
A grotesque tread a wind at will,
A sudden sun on a yellow hill,
Gray smoke blankets hung out for an airing!

These are mine for the fairing
From my back stoop to the next in weather
That sulks like a child with lips together.

Second Spring
There is such a thing as a new shoot springing
From an old and withered bough,
There is such a thing as a new love bringing
Joy to a heart dead now.

So do not weep and gather petals
Fallen after the rain:
New white love does not break to blossoms
Without some pain.

New Moon
Atlanta is paring the golden apple
And tossing the rinds to the sky,
The fruit Hippomenes dropped on the path
As he went swiftly by.

One scimitar segment has pierced the clouds
And rides in the purpling blue
That dykes the mantle of evening
Before the stars out through.

GAYNOR-BAXTER
FILM THURSDAY
AT BROADWAY

Movie lovers who remember the enjoyable screen entertainment that resulted from the juxtaposition of the talents of Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, will delight in the announcement that this team of screen lovers is again co-starred in "One More Spring," which opens an engagement of three days at the Broadway theater next Thursday, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The stars appear in romance of today, adapted from the acclaimed best-seller by Robert Nathan. Janet Gaynor has a deeply emotional role as a courageous girl alone in the world, and Warner Baxter is the romantic adventurer who clings to the right to dream.

The vibrant romance set in a snow-coated park, is said to be packed to the hilt with excitement. Brought together by chance in a park in mid-winter, a man and a girl, each penniless, seek refuge in a disused toolhouse, to which come an oddly set of characters.

Stepin Fetchit brings his peculiar and original comedy to relieve the tenderness of the picture.

Selected short subjects on the bill include "Star Night at the Coconut Grove," a musical, "Pardon My Grip," a sports novelty, "Robinson Crusoe Island," a cartoon, and Register World News events.

MYSTERY AND
COMEDY OPEN
ON THURSDAY

Baffling mystery spiced with hilarious comedy and highlighted with adventure and the glow of romance is presented in "Murder on a Honeymoon," which opens at the West Coast theater next Thursday for three days with a second feature, "Carnival." It was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Carnival" is a new comedy-romance featuring Lee Tracy, Sally Eilers, Jimmy Durante and the new child actor, Dickie Walters. "Carnival" tells the human story of a carnival puppeteer who tries to keep his motherless infant son from being taken away from him. Jimmy Durante, the baby's comic godfather, and Sally Eilers, as the pianist who is deeply in love with him, remain with him through all his exciting hilarious adventures.

Carrying the same delightful characterizations that brought them high acclaim in previous pictures, Edna May Oliver, character comedienne, as the school teacher sleuth, and James Gleason, famous for his wise-cracking roles, as the police inspector, are seen again in "Murder on a Honeymoon."

The mystery deals with a murder on a seaplane as it flies between Los Angeles and Catalina Island, and all of the scenes take place on the Magic Isle. Baffling clues point the finger of suspicion at each of the plane's passengers and pilots in turn, and it is not until the final thrilling scenes that the guilty party is revealed in a surprise finish.

Short subjects will include a cartoon, "The Bird Man," and World News events.

"ROBERTA" OPENS
HERE ON MARCH 10

"Roberta," a brilliant musical drama with a compelling, human story, will open at the Broadway theater on Sunday, March 10, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The cast in "Roberta" includes Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers and Randolph Scott, all favorite players. Fred Astaire, noted dancer, and Ginger Rogers appeared together in the notable success in which they introduced

ARLISS FILM,
FIELDS COMEDY
COMES TO STATE

"The House of Rothschild," regarded by many as one of the outstanding films of the year, brings a fine cast in an exceptionally entertaining story to Walker's State theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Manager Vic Walker said today, "With it is a W. C. Fields comedy, 'The Old Fashioned Way.'"

George Arliss, whose characterizations always ring true, has the lead in the picture, first as Mayor Rothschild, the father of five brothers who made the family name celebrated in history, and then as Nathan, the brother who founded the English branch of the famous European banking family. The supporting cast includes Boris Karloff, Loretta Young, Robert Young, G. Aubrey Smith, Florence Arliss and Arthur Byron.

The Fields comedy portrays the wanderings of a theatrical troupe which just escapes the sheriff at every turn through the ingenuity of its owner, producer and principal entertainer, Baby Leroy has the role as his chief annoyance. Others in the cast are Joe Morrison and Judith Allen. Several scenes from "The Drunkard" are included. A comedy in color, "Business Is a Pleasure," completes the bill.

For the mid-week bill the theater has booked "Murder in Trinidad," a mystery concerning diamond smugglers and three murders, with a cast headed by Nigel Bruce and Heather Angel; and another film that is regarded as one of the entertainment highlights of the year, "The Count of Monte Cristo." In the latter film, which brings to the screen a vivid portrayal of the story of Edmond Dantes, the young Frenchman who is unjustly imprisoned by his enemies, his escape and revenge upon his enemies, Robert Donat and Elissa Landi have the leading roles. An Oswald cartoon, "Wolf, Wolf," is also on the program.

On Friday and Saturday Jackie Cooper comes in "Lone Cowboy," based on Will James' book. On the same program is the last chapter of "The Vanishing Shadow," a Popeye cartoon; a comedy and a news reel.

"Rumba" and
"Maybe It's Love" Billed

A double feature program, with "Maybe It's Love," a sparkling, ultra-modern drama, the trials and troubles of a pair of young lovers, with Gloria Stuart and Ross Alexander heading the cast, which includes Frank McHugh, Helen Lowell, Phillip Reed, Joseph Cawthorn, Ruth Donnelly and Dorothy Dare, will open at the West Coast theater on Sunday, March 10, with a second feature, "Rumba," it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

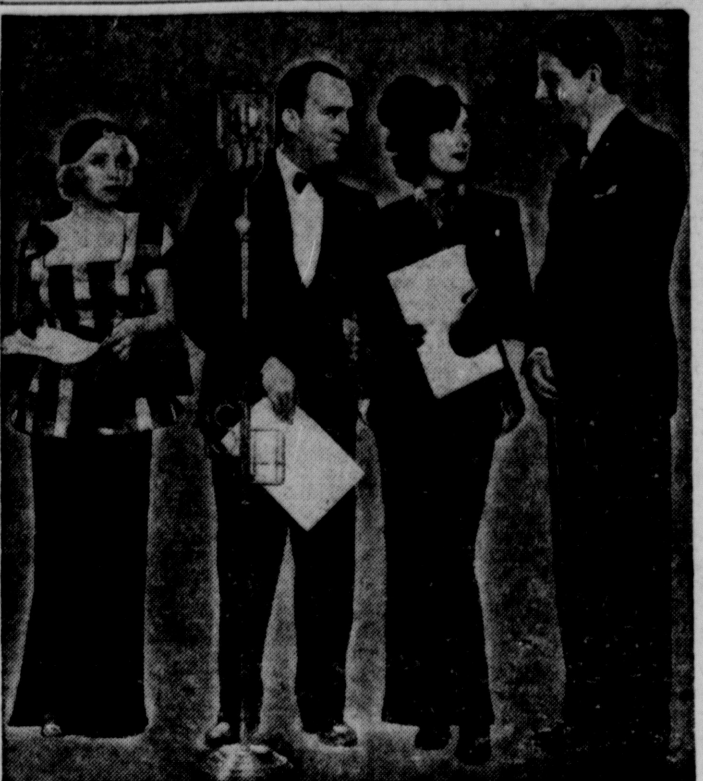

With a rhythmic undertone of jungle tom-toms, "Rumba" brings George Raft and Carole Lombard back to the screen in an even greater success than their first co-starring effort, "Roler." Filled with elaborate and fascinating rhythms, some of LeRoy Prinz's most successful chorus routines, sparkling photography and costumes, it tells the vivid, poignant and human love story of a tempestuous dancer and a fascinating beauty.

Raft and Miss Lombard are the principals in the drama, which carries its people from Havana to New York through dancing, gaiety and what at times seems like inevitable heartbreak. A series of carefully planned climaxes leads the picture to its major climax when Raft dances on the stage with Carole Lombard in defiance of gangster's threats and guns. Prominent in the supporting cast are Margo, petite Mexican beauty and dancer; Iris Adrian, Lynne Overman, Monroe Owsley and Gail Patrick.

the dance, "The Continental." Music for the new film, "Roberta," is by Jerome Kern.

The scene below shows Alice White, Allen Jenkins, Ann Dvorak and Rudy Vallee in one of the broadcasting scenes.

"SWEET MUSIC" "WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" NOW
OPENS SUNDAY AT BROADWAY AT WEST COAST

"Sweet Music," a musical romance with Rudy Vallee starred and a cast including Ann Dvorak, Ned Sparks, Helen Morgan, Allen Jenkins, Alice White and Al Shean, will open an engagement of four days at the Broadway theater tomorrow, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Vallee will have with him in "Sweet Music" not only his own famous Connecticut Yankees, but the Frank and Milt Britton band of instrument wreckers, hilarious comedians, Ann Dvorak turns "hooper" for the picture, while Miss Morgan, most famous of all torch singers, is featured in vocal numbers.

Scores of singers, dancers and players are featured in the great musical romance. It is said to be stronger in plot, more romantic and more hilariously funny even than "Twenty Million Sweethearts."

Vallee has the role of a college youth who has organized a band from among his fellows. They turn professional and make a tremendous hit over the radio and at night clubs. He falls in love with a beautiful dancing girl who thinks she hates him because he is constantly taunting her about her act, but who, after spurning his love, suddenly awakens to the fact that it is to this young crooner that she owes all her engagements.

Short subjects on the program include "Crime Doesn't Pay," a novelty concerning prison breaks; "I Haven't Got a Hat," a color cartoon, and Register World News events.

"Society Doctor," a chronicle of human emotions and happenings in a great metropolitan hospital, shows for the last times at the Broadway theater tonight with a second feature, "The Woman in Red." Barbara Stanwyck's latest starring vehicle.

Chester Morris and Virginia Bruce are teamed in the featured roles of "Society Doctor," a drama of a life-time crowded into the brief space of eight hours. Billie Burke, William Henry, Mary Jo Mathews, Henry Kolker and others have important roles.

What happens when Genevieve Tobin, the employer of Miss Stanwyck, tries to break up a romance between Miss Stanwyck and Gene Raymond, forms the basis of the story in "The Woman in Red." Miss Stanwyck takes the part of an aristocratic Kentucky girl who is forced to become a professional rider in society horse shows through financial reverses.

MRS. GEORGE HOSTESS
GARDEN GROVE, March 2—Mrs. Charles George, president of the Woman's Civic club, entertained officers of the club with a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at her home on South Euclid avenue Friday. The three-course luncheon was served at one table decorated in a St. Patrick motif with white stock in a green bowl and tall tapers.

Another film of importance booked is Will Rogers' newest picture, "Life Begins at Forty," in which Richard Cromwell, George Barbier, Rochelle Hudson and Jane Darwell are prominently cast.

Declared to be among the 10 best pictures of the year, Edward G. Robinson's new starring vehicle, "The Whole Town's Talking," has aroused intense interest among Santa Ana and Orange county movie fans since it showed here for the first time last night, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain. The film ends Wednesday.

Crammed full of suspense, action, comedy and startling surprises, the film presents Robinson in his first screen comedy role. Long accustomed to seeing the popular actor in hard-boiled, sinister and somewhat nefarious roles, his astute, resourceful performance in a serio-comic characterization is doubly effective because of its novelty.

Highly praised by critics, the film tells the story of a meek and frightened clerk who one day is revealed to be the striking physical counterpart of the nation's No. 1 public enemy. To prevent the police from molesting the innocent clerk, the authorities arm him with a document attesting his identity. His double, Killer Mahlon, crows the clerk, Jones, into hiding out nights while the Killer goes about his criminal affairs using this passport to provide comparative immunity. Subsequent events and complications bring this fast-paced comedy to a powerful, dramatic conclusion.

Jean Arthur as Robinson's film-land dream-love, Wallace Ford as a newspaper reporter; Arthur Byron as the district attorney, and Etienne Girardot as the harassed head clerk, turn in excellent performances in the supporting cast.

The program of short subjects includes a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "Tit for Tat," a color cartoon, "Song of the Birds," and World News events.

Broadway To

One of the films is Ring Circus, by new starring vehicle, "Mississippi," W. C. Fields, Joan Bennett, Gail Patrick and Queenie Smith have important roles.

Next on the program will be "Living on Velvet," a smashing drama with a unique twist on the eternal love triangle in which Kay Francis has the stellar role. Warren William and George Brent have the leading male parts.

Then comes Shirley Temple, who will delight her army of movie fans in an ideal vehicle which gives her opportunity to display her singing and dancing talents, "The Little Colonel," in which she is co-starred with Lionel Barrymore.

Another film of importance booked is Will Rogers' newest picture, "Life Begins at Forty," in which Richard Cromwell, George Barbier, Rochelle Hudson and Jane Darwell are prominently cast.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL
Dinner
Tomato broth, 1 cup
Baked beef shoulder, stuffed, 1 medium slice
Large serving of string beans and spinach, buttered
Lettuce and canned grapefruit salad
Coffee
Calory total, 450.

Use canned tomato soup for broth, thinning it with water. Season and serve over a spoonful of whipped cream.

The large round in a shoulder of prime beef makes a grand roast. Prime out the bone and stuff the hole with a sage dressing. Put a layer of suet over top and bake the roast slowly in a covered roaster for at least 4 hours. This cut will work up into three good meals, first as a roast, then sliced and re-heated in gravy, served with rice, and last, as good baked hash.

I made a discovery in vegetable combination this week that you will be interested in: A can of cut string beans was used, the beans again sliced, lengthwise. Half of a can of spinach was added, fine and added with butter, salt and pepper. Heated in a double boiler, a little vinegar went in at serving time because of the spinach. The combination was very good.

Suits and new spring dresses are slim and getting slimmer. How are you... do you match their requirements? If not, you'd better be on your toes and do something about it. ## Musical Arts Club Hears Talk By Musician

Speaking on the subject, "Phases of A Capella Music," Benjamin Edwards, head of the voice department of Fullerton district Junior college, and director of the well known Fullerton Humana A Capella choir, addressed a large crowd at a meeting of Musical Arts club held yesterday noon in James' Cafe. In telling of the technique of conducting an a capella choir, Edwards related in part that it is of paramount importance that the director and choir be unified, creating a mass personality. ## I Am Not Hurt

By Helen Welshimer

I AM not hurt because you put away
My love . . . in truth I've come to understand
That when you sought new conquest yesterday
On foreign fields as often you had planned,
The love which I had fashioned as a cloak,
With thought to keep you safe from cold and damp,
Had been a burden that would check the stroke
Of sword upraised against a hostile camp.

A RUNNER must be free to move at will,
Not fettered by the weight of widened clothes.
My love, perchance, had tripped you on a hill,
But if the years that follow should disclose
The need for warmth that sometimes comes to men,
Come back, my dear, and don the cloak again!

Peter Unmasks Falsehood

Text: Acts 5:1-6; 8:18-24. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 3.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The story of Ananias and Sapphira has taken rather firm hold in human interest. It is unfortunately true that mankind is wont to take a more apparent interest in a great liar than in a great truth teller, though I suppose it is not quite true that mankind is more interested in falsehood than in truth.

People refer to a great liar today as an "Ananias," though Ananias was something more than a liar. The fact is that Ananias is perhaps more closely related to most persons than they realize, because his deep sin was not in telling an untruth, but in professing to be something that he was not and to be doing something that he was not doing.

A wave of fine social enthusiasm had swept over these early Christians, destroying distinctions of wealth and rank, making those who were well to do ready to minister to the needs of those who lacked—a sort of Christian communism, very noble for those like Barnabas, who could enter into it earnestly and sincerely, but difficult for those whose souls were not purified and enriched with the spirit of unselfishness.

The tendency in all such situations is for ideals to become dominant and exacting in such way that individuals who have not undergone the necessary experience that enables them to respond naturally and sincerely are, nevertheless, too weak to express their dissent.

So they profess to live according to the ideal while the reality of their lives is very different. Thus it was that Ananias and Sapphira, his wife, possessing property, did not say, as they might have said, "We are not willing to give all this as others are giving." Instead, they professed to be giving it all, but they actually kept back part of the price.

They came laying their gifts at the apostle's feet, professing to yield their all, where they were withholding much for themselves. The condemnation in our lesson was not because they did not give it up, but because, as Peter said to them, they had lied to the Holy Spirit. The property was theirs; while they had it, it was in their power. But when they professed to give it to purposes of the church and kept it for themselves, it became a different matter.

The unholy use of holy things is further illustrated in the story of Peter and Simon Magus—a man who was not a saint at heart, but a magician who desired to have the power that he saw the apostles exercising, and who imagined that it could be bought with money. The sin of this Simon the magician was the sin of those who try to commercialize religion, who take the holy things that ought to be above all self-interest and profit and turn them to their own base ends.

Against all such Ananiases and Sapphiras, one must set the beauty and integrity of Christian character and action, the beauty of supreme and self-sacrificing devotion. The height and glory of the Christian witness must never be compromised by regard for those who fail to live up to their profession.

It is not by the failure of men, by their weaknesses and hypocrisies, that we should judge the truth and the Christian ideal, but by the triumphant living of those who measure up to the supreme test.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

THE FALL OF JERUSALEM.—

Josiah not only renewed the covenant of the Lord, but he destroyed idolatry in Judah and kept a most solemn passover. He put away witches and all abominations, that he might perform the words of the book of the law. "Notwithstanding, the Lord turned not from the fierceness of His great wrath, wherewith His anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the provocations that Manasseh had provoked Him withal. And the Lord said, I will remove Judah also out of my sight, as I have removed Israel, and will cast off this city Jerusalem which I have chosen, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there."—II Kings 23: 26-27. "And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came, he, and all his host, against Jerusalem, and pitched against it; and they built forts against it round about."—II Kings 25: 1. Famine compelled the Israelites to surrender and Jerusalem fell, while the children of Israel were made captives. This illustration is from Mathew Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The Tynmies watched the giant, as he crawled into his home. "He has a pretty tough time," Duncy said. "I'd rather walk in, straight."

"Imagine having to drop to your hands and knees. Two would never do. Before I'd move into a house too small, I'd hesitate."

"Well, he seems fairly satisfied," said Duncy. "Come, let's go inside, and maybe he will tell us why he picked a home like this."

"Our going in will not be tough. The door is plenty high enough. A look around this house is something I would hate to miss."

I wanted to be different. You've felt the same, no doubt.

"One day I held the stone real tight and then I wished with all my might that I would grow real tall. As you can see, my wish came true."

"It only goes to show you, tot, that wishing sometimes brings you lots of trouble. Just be satisfied, is my advice to you."

(The giant pulls a very funny stunt in the next story.)

THE CREAM OF GROVES

It's less than 10 acres but it's quality. Quality at a fair price is generally better than quantity at a cheap price. The few acres, the less the upkeep, the larger the profit, the more profitable to buy for more cheapness. And still a full bearing Valencia grove of high standard at $2500 per acre is and will be considered extremely reasonable.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE ARRIVE AT UNDERSTANDING

The Chinese and Japanese seem to be coming to an agreement on a program.

In a way it looks like a certain kind of peace, but it's the peace, apparently, that comes from surrender and practically subjection.

China, it appears, is to supplement its military trainers, most of whom are Germans, with Japanese military experts. She further will agree to stop anti-Japanese sentiment, so as to prevent further boycotts on Japanese goods, and further to supplement this effort with a publicity campaign for a Sino-Japanese understanding.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek is the man who has been acting for the Nanking government China will receive, in return for these concessions, financial aid in the form of loans from the Japanese government.

The full details have not become known and probably will not for some time, but it practically amounts to a protectorate over China by Japan. It places Japan in the real strategic position in the Far East and she will expect to have China with her in her future plans.

It will be recalled that Chiang Kai-Shek is the man who has been under suspicion that he has been receiving Japanese money. And it will be recalled further, that he used troops elsewhere, that should have been used to protect China from Japan's advance, under the claim that he was fighting "Communists."

This suggests, really, the real weakness of this rapprochement. There is no doubt but that the Chinese leaders, as a whole, do not look with favor upon this forced union with Japan. And it is probably attributed to disloyalty in Chiang Kai-Shek and other men in high places.

There are many generals in China, each having his own private army and the weakness of the situation is always known to be that the leader is after money and the troops are after subsistence. Japan cannot rely permanently upon a condition that is brought about by dealing under such circumstances. She has not won the Chinese nation or the Chinese leadership.

To enforce the agreement will need not only a larger army in China, but a continuous one. But on the face of it, Japan is in much better position to treat with Russia than she has heretofore been, and it places the Far Eastern national relationships before the world where Great Britain will have something really serious about which to think.

The developing trade in China is needed by a number of nations. Japan, in her expanding industrial era, is making inroads upon Great Britain and other manufacturing countries and this set-up between China and Japan aids Japan in her markets.

We had thought, when Japan started on what seemed to be her outlaw career, that she would run amuck. The League of Nations did nothing more than to make a survey and report and unanimously condemn Japan for her attitude, but as Mark Twain said of the weather: "They did nothing about it."

Japanese leaders evidently knew the League of Nations. It is one of the cases where it failed.

It pointed the way, but didn't insist that the people should walk therein. It might just as well have been a guidepost that pointed across an unbroken field instead of down the highway.

No one was moving except Japan, and Japan wasn't moving in the direction the sign-board pointed.

The precedent that is being established is one of the serious things in this whole affair. Italy, in her attitude in Abyssinia, undoubtedly takes cognizance of Japan's success and she will reason that it isn't necessary to have what the writers of the Declaration of Independence considered as important, "a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

She evidently can be confident that she will not lose unless the war itself should weaken her. Nations, unfortunately, are respected in proportion to their ability to get what they go after.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DESERVES CREDIT IN SAAR

The fight over reorganization of the Republican Party should have been more than two years ago.

It is well to remember now in the official transfer of the Saar to Germany, that the League of Nations played an important part in the program of that transfer.

It will be recalled that as the day approached for the vote, both Germany and France were stirred by the possible results and there was a tension, the breaking of which at any moment would precipitate difficulties that would result in another great war.

All over the world we were looking forward to the vote in the Saar almost with fear and trembling. And then the moves began to be made for the peaceful adjustment.

The League of Nations sent into the Saar an international army to preserve the peace of the people during the period of the campaign and election, together with the transfer. Then France closed negotiations with Germany to be paid for the mines in the Saar, which of course, it would have been practically impossible for France to conduct with the Saar itself as a part of the German state.

But over it all and through it all was the guiding hand of the League of Nations, with the aim the peace of Europe and of the world being paramount to the interest of either France or Germany.

The League of Nations has performed many services to prevent war and to create peace. And we are becoming more and more convinced that all people interested in and desirous for peace will find that the League of Nations is registering progress toward that end which was its founder's hope.

CHANCELLOR HITLER EXTENDS THE OLIVE BRANCH

The Saar valley has been officially returned to Germany and becomes a part again of the German nation.

Adolf Hitler makes this the occasion of extending the "olive branch" to France, which is usually looked upon as Germany's traditional enemy.

Whatever may be behind the words, certainly the words themselves indicate the desire for peace. For Mr. Hitler says:

We believe that our great neighbor nation seeks peace as we do. It must be possible for two great nations to shake hands. The plebiscite represents a work of great historical merit. May God be my witness that this work has no other aim than to make Germans free and happy.

We can wish that Hitler, in his conception of "Germans" can include all people of German parentage and loyalty, regardless of racial divisions or religious faith.

It is inconceivable that Germany or any other nation of people, can be supremely happy with religious rancor and hostility and official handicaps against the people of any race.

We hope that the influence of this address, while quieting to the spirit of French people, will react in Germany itself to correct some of the serious mistakes which have been made.

FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE HOLMES FIGHTING GALLANTLY

The well-wishes of citizens all over the country are certainly with former Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

He is 93 years old and is making a sturdy fight against pneumonia and the report at this hour is that he is holding his own.

Oliver Wendell Holmes is a great jurist. He graced the bench with a fine personality, with outstanding ability, and with liberal views.

He remained in service until about his 90th birthday, showing a rigorous constitution and fine habits. We recently saw a letter written in his own hand, in response to congratulations on his age and health.

It indicated a cheerful optimism. He has extended the value of the name of Oliver Wendell Holmes, even more widely than did his illustrious father, "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Who Were They?

Christian Science Monitor

Who were the Mayas whose cities with their temples, pyramids, cobbled streets and citadels, hide beneath the jungles of Yucatan, British Honduras, Guatemala and Honduras? This civilization was fast vanishing when Columbus trod North American shores. The Spanish Conquistadores called them "savages," but showing little civilization themselves, butchered the Mayas wholesale. Today this vast "empire" is in the news because another city has been found in northern Honduras—found when an earthquake rent the ground and revealed an open staircase leading down to new archaeological treasures.

When did this civilization begin? These ancient whose silent buildings form America's "Valley of Kings," built structures which could not be duplicated today for millions of dollars. Without telescopes, chronometers, or nautical almanacs they could predict eclipses, tell time, classify stars in the heavenly vault and develop a mathematical system so complex as to give modern mathematicians considerable trouble. Their count of the days was sweeping in scope, dating back to a zero of Oct. 14, 3373 B. C.

What does that date mean? There have been many "keys" tried, but none will fit. Perhaps with the aid of the newly discovered notebook kept in the sixteenth century by the Spaniard B. Gomesta, the right keys will be found. Containing forty Mayan symbols with their Spanish translation, this may be all that modern archaeologists need to build up the ancient tongue, now forgotten.

Where did the Mayas come from? Smooth-faced, like many Asiatics, did they come from Asia by way of Alaska or the Pacific Isles? Were they left over Atlanteans whose nation Plato tells us sank beneath the ocean in less than a day and night?

Perhaps we shall know the answer to these questions and a lot more when scientists have learned the Mayan ABC's.

Michigan Canal

Detroit News

Again the proposition for a cross-Michigan ship canal is to take form and perhaps get consideration and backing. Saginaw's city engineer has figured out that a 150-mile cut from Saginaw bay to Grand Haven would save shipping from the lower lakes to Chicago about 400 miles and also would make Saginaw, St. Charles, Ionia and Grand Rapids seaport towns when the St. Lawrence waterway is completed.

A century ago considerable enthusiasm was aroused over a scheme to build a canal across the State from Lake Erie to Lake Michigan that would have involved canalizing parts of the Huron and St. Joseph rivers. Railroad construction that began to boom soon after made Michigan people forget this enterprise.

However, a Michigan canal through Michigan's coal and oil fields and connecting flourishing manufacturing towns is not a preposterous proposal. England, a little smaller territorially than Michigan, has one of the best railroad systems in the world, but also it has more than 3000 miles of canals and uses them to carry millions of tons of freight every year.

Chicago Cuts Crime

Oakland Tribune

It used to be permissible to call attention to the crime record of Chicago, for that record, distressing as it was, was news. It was news to contain a warning, stimulate inquiry, and encourage a remedial program. Other cities did not wish to be like Chicago, and Chicago resented having its shame forever put before the world.

Right now it is both fair and pleasant to record that the number of crimes in Chicago in 1934 was 22 per cent less than the number in 1933. In other words, that war upon crime which an aroused city ordered, has achieved remarkable results. In every classification crime there is less than in 1933 or 1932.

Chicago had the reputation of being gangster-ridden. It was the home of Al Capone and the scene of the Valentine murders. Its beer-barons flaunted graft. Following revelations which linked crooked politics to crime and sent many to prison, the large city went in for a thorough housecleaning. No longer does it deserve those "jests" which had it a visitor there should carry a steel umbrella for protection against falling bullets. It deserves credit for doing a good job.

More Truth Than Poetry

LEMMINGS

This is the time the lemmings go
Across the frozen Arctic snow
Until they reach
The ocean beach.
Yet are not turned aside,
Instead they make their stubborn trek
O'er many a floe, past many a wreck,
Until at last
Their forms are cast
Upon the swirling tide.

Nobody yet has found out why
The creatures doom themselves to die,
But when the year
Of fate draws near,
They set forth on their way,
And when the time is ripe, behold,
They join together, young and old,
And move along
A billion strong
To perish in the spray.

Do they intend, do you suppose,
To drown themselves amid the flocks?
Do they foresee
What lot must be
Before them as they travel?
But, though this problem takes one's breath,
I shall not fret myself to death;
I'm licked and through
But maybe you
The problem can unravel.

FILL THE BLANK YOURSELF

Well, Congress is on its way, even if it doesn't
(Copyright, 1935, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Evidently there are no farmers in Congress. They wouldn't fix relief wages at $50 a month if they needed hoe hands. How wonderful is man! Suffering in crowded lands while the vast fertile plains of Africa remain unused.

It may be true that a crowd will commit follies that its individual members would scorn. Look at Congress.

Let us be thankful for Judgment Day. It will be one crisis which America can't postpone by borrowing. This is indeed a Christian land. Observe its obedience to the command "Take no thought for the morrow."

LAW MUST BE FAIR. IF YOU CAN FORCE A MAN TO EMPLOY YOU, HE CAN FORCE YOU TO WORK FOR HIM.

Our government needn't confiscate property as Russia did. It can just foreclose the mortgage.

Dumb animals are the ones that don't keep themselves poor to pay the debts left by dead ones.

The rich never know what is in their food. This is especially true if they have offended the cook.

AMERICANISM: Observing a magazine filled with piffle; thinking it a great magazine because its piffle is repeated in several million copies.

How strange that none but rich men, who hire the best auditors make mistakes that require tax refunds. There was no slander in the beginning. You see, Adam and Eve had no one to envy.

What made this a nation? Well, when the pioneer met a hardship, he didn't sit down and howl for the government.

ENEMIES AREN'T SO BAD. THEY SLANDER US, BUT THEY AREN'T THE ONES WHO COME AND TELL US ABOUT IT.

It's a dirty capitalistic trick. The underprivileged, being supported by the government, become so soft they can't start a fuss.

The little boy in the second row will now name the great benefits obtained by recognizing Russia. Low wages make hard time. And the man who makes $500 a week and pays $485 in taxes is getting low wages.

It is easy to tell a lunatic cause. People never get wildly enthusiastic about common sense.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "A CHILD COULD SEE THE IDIOTRY IN THIS SCHEME," SAID THE MAN, "SO THERE'S NO DANGER THAT CONGRESS WILL ACCEPT IT."

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

IF WE REVISE THE NRA

I have read with the keenest interest the President's plea for the retention and revision of the NRA. It is gratifying to hear his recommendation that the futile and dangerous factor of price fixing be thoroughly reconsidered in any such revision.

Heaven knows that crimes unnumbered have been committed in the name of the competitive system. Competition, as an economic process, cried aloud for reconsideration when Mr. Roosevelt took over the reins of power in 1933.

Through his national recovery program, the President sought, not only to improve, but actually to supplant the competitive system with a system of cooperative action.

In so far as the codes set out to eliminate unfair competition that rested upon starvation wages, body-breaking hours of labor and the ruthless slavery of children, they were setting out to do some thing we had too long left undone.

In practical operation, however, the codes have moved in the direction of simply substituting the laissez faire selfishness of groups for the laissez faire selfishness of individuals.

They have eliminated fair as well as unfair competition and have fixed prices in a manner that has robbed the consuming public of the legitimate fruits of superior management.

I agree with Q. Forrest Walker who, in a hearing on price fixing last month, said that "if we persist in price fixing, our benign cooperation must be displaced ultimately by a malignant paternalism which will arbitrate the economic destiny of all private enterprise."

It is gratifying that Mr. Roosevelt frankly recognizes the necessity of reconsidering this whole problem of price fixing. It is important to note, however, that in respect to both price fixing and monopoly the President persistently adds the adjective private.

He seems to say we should be on our guard against any feature of the codes that permits private price fixing or monopoly control by the private groups which the NRA foreshadowed, but seems still to cling to the notion that government may wisely fix prices and establish monopoly operations. Here is a point at which Congress may wisely insist upon a full explanation of governmental policy before it writes out a blank check. Copyright, 1935, McClure Newspaper-Syn.

SPEED TESTS

Doris does not want to go to school these days. She has school headaches that vanish after the school session has begun and it is too late for her to go for that morning. She loses all her smiling gaiety if school is mentioned.

She begs to be allowed to stay home and do her lessons with someone to help her instead of the teacher. All this has happened because of the speed tests in arithmetic.

"We have a hundred and twenty examples to do and we have to do them before the teacher says Time. I know the answers but when I have to wait until she taps the pencil and then fly my fingers so as to have them all done when she calls time and snaps her watch I can't get anything right. I can't do that speed test."

Why should she do it? Why should any child be matched against time like that, day after day until they hate the thought of the lesson, and finally the idea of school? What is gained by it? Nothing that I can discover. But much is lost.

The children are learning their tables. They only know them superficially as yet. They must use them a long time, many times, every day in order to know them automatically. That is what these tests are supposed to do. Make the children recall the answer rapidly and accurately. But that is precisely what they do not do. They make many of the children confused and slow and inaccurate when if allowed to take enough time to collect their powers they would be able to recall the tables perfectly.

It is right to teach children to finish their work within reasonable time limits. Left to themselves they might make one simple school exercise last all morning and get into the habit of dawdling. Why go to the other extreme and drive them so furiously that they lose control of their powers and fail?

It is not only accuracy in arithmetic that is to be considered here. The health of the children must be given some attention. Over-speeding them results in all sorts of nervous difficulties. This is to be expected when dealing with children. Their organs are not fully grown, their powers are not under steady control. Their growth
